GRAND KNIGHT'S MESSAGE

It's that time of the year kids are back in school, and the colors of fall will be here to enjoy. September ended with the annual I. D. tootsie roll drive. Thanks to Greg and all the volunteers who supported this effort. October and November bring more opportunities to get involved with your council. At The October meeting we will be discussing more about the events and how you can help. Brother Knight Dean Lackey will be moving and I wish him and Sheryl a healthy and happy life in their new home. Dean has been an example of what we knights are about and I will miss him not only as a brother knight but a good friend. Hope to see you at our next meeting. Let the holy spirit be your guide

Vivat Jesus,

Rick Cervantes

PRO-LIFE MESSAGE

Imagine for a moment that there was a serial killer who over the space of decades murdered hundreds of victims without being caught. Imagine that he mutilated and maimed many others. Imagine, too, that his mind was so twisted that he took photos of his victims, and even kept their bodies or body parts preserved in his home and office. And imagine that in addition to murdering countless victims, he was also a prolific drug dealer, using his medical license as a front to sell opioid prescriptions to thousands of people, thereby injuring and KILLING MANY MORE. And then imagine that on multiple occasions police became suspicious and interviewed him, only to repeatedly let him go. Finally, imagine that after decades of killing, the scope of his crimes was revealed only by accident, when his medical office was raided after a routine, months-long investigation by the Drug Enforcement Agency: a raid that exposed the hellish reality hiding behind the walls of what he presented to the world as a legitimate medical practice. By all accounts, this is one of the most sensational stories in history: a once-in-a-century true crime story, even worse than that of Jack the Ripper, or any other of history's most gruesome serial killers. Of course, we don't have to "imagine" any of this. All of this really happened. Right here in America. And this prolific serial killer is still alive, currently serving three life sentences. The name of this serial killer is Kermit Gosnell. Some of us, not many, certainly not enough, watched with horror, a documentary film about this monster at St. Pius X Church, McCarthy Hall.

Few people know about Dr. Kermit Gosnell's crimes. Yet he killed hundreds, perhaps thousands. His crimes are horrific. Most of his victims were babies. He also killed and mutilated many, many women, mostly minorities. He gathered trophies of body parts. He took intimate photos of his victims. He recruited others to kill. And according to his victims and staff, he seemed to take pleasure in his crimes. Gosnell was also one of Philadelphia's biggest drug dealers. He first came to the attention of the police in 1972 for mutilating almost a dozen women. But he was allowed to continue practicing medicine and killing until he was finally arrested in 2011. A 39 year career of murder that didn't need to happen, had the police actually investigated this man called doctor. It is true that in the months after Gosnell's arrest, and during his trial, the media did cover the case. How could they not? The details of the case were sensational. In the wake of the police raid on the clinic over suspicions that he was dealing drugs, there emerged a steady flood of new and ever-more-macabre details about what police

DEACON'S QUESTION BOX

Good morning, between my trip to Denver for the Catholic Medical Association . And coming down with COVID. I will not complete a column this month. October's is already in process and will be ready by council meeting night. I apologize to all. I don't think this has happened before in the last 10 years and it was certainly not something I planned.

found: blood-stained floors and walls, rusty, outdated medical equipment, untrained staff performing medical procedures, fridges stuffed with bags full of the bodies of his victims, first-person accounts of the throats or spinal cords of living victims being slit. However, even then the coverage hardly did justice to the magnitude of the case. We barely hear about Gosnell at all. Few people are probably aware that America’s most prolific serial killer was caught just over a decade ago and is still alive. The reason we hear so little about him now is no secret. Gosnell was, at least on paper, an “abortionist.” As such, his case inevitably provokes profoundly uncomfortable questions – questions that the deeply pro-abortion media establishment would rather not ask. It is important to note that when I speak of Gosnell’s “hundreds” of victims, I am not including in that list the untold thousands of unborn children that Gosnell killed. They too are his victims.

However, the unjust law of our land, tragically, does not recognize them as victims. Instead, it arbitrarily grants the right to life at the moment of birth. To kill a child moments before it is born is (albeit depending upon the state) perfectly legal. To kill that same child, however, moments after its birth is murder, just the same as killing any other person is murder. Gosnell killed children that were born alive. According to the testimony of his former staff, he killed lots of them. Perhaps hundreds, perhaps more, which, even in the light of our perverse laws, makes him America’s most prolific serial killer. However, we don’t treat him as such. Gosnell’s name is rarely mentioned in the same sentence as other notorious serial killers such as Ted Bundy or Jack the Ripper. The reason, of course, is that he killed those who had just barely crossed the legal line from non-persons to persons. In the case of one child, known in court as “Baby A,” a mother gave birth to her child in a toilet in the clinic. Then Gosnell snipped its neck. Our culture doesn’t know what to do with such a serial killer – a killer whose actions would have been perfectly legal, had they been performed minutes, or even seconds, earlier. No wonder Gosnell himself sounds so confused when he is asked about his crimes and continues to protest his innocence. “I didn’t think I had done anything at all,” Gosnell says in one recorded interview. Indeed, Gosnell evidently thinks of himself as a kind of hero, a man who was offering much-needed medical services to his fellow minorities. And why shouldn’t he think so? So much of the media and political establishment had assured him, for so long, that abortionists are heroes: doctors who were willing to brave the anger of those “bigoted” pro-lifers to help women out in their time of need. This is a story that must be told, not only to honor the lives of Gosnell’s many victims, but to raise awareness about the ongoing crimes being perpetrated against so many others, right now. Gosnell’s case exposes the deep dissonance at the heart of the law in so many states. Even though Roe v. Wade is no longer the law of the land, in so many states, like Illinois, New York, and California, the unborn still lack legal protections. One of his staff argued, and I’m sure the “doctor” agreed, that it was “standard medical practice” to allow children that were born alive after failed abortions to die of exposure and dehydration. What was the dividing line between acceptable medical practice, and murder? That is the question that Gosnell’s story should provoke in the mind of any right-thinking person. We face an overwhelming bias of the secular press, who fail to report on the true nature of abortion and its lucrative and violent industry, and a political establishment, especially the current administration, determined to enshrine abortion at any cost, irrespective of the inviolable dignity and right to life of the most vulnerable of our human family, the unborn. That is why Gosnell’s story must continue to be told.

2023 Pro-Life Pancake Breakfast

We are grateful to God and the tireless efforts of countless pro-life activists that Roe V. Wade was overturned, finally, and God willing, forever. But the fight continues. Illinois will continue to allow abortions and the option may be even more liberal than it was under the federal law. Iowa will disallow it, but that could change if Iowa loses conservative executive or legislative majorities. 2023 marks the 50th anniversary of Roe v. Wade. Organizers are planning a March on Washington both in commemoration of that fateful day 50 years ago and in celebration of the recent victory. In solidarity, our Council is planning, once again, to support local pro-life organizations by hosting a pancake breakfast. Mark your calendar for Sunday January 22nd, and please consider how you might help make the fundraiser the best to date. I will be contacting you again later in the fall to solicit your involvement.

Your brother, Jerry Schroeder
