DEACON'S QUESTION BOX

Is there significance to the number of the candles on the Altar? Question: I have noticed that the number of candles on the altar change from time to time and sometimes from mass to mass. Is there significance to the number and placement of the candles on the Altar? This question suggests a couple of things about the questioner. First he is not coming to Mass just to check off an activity that needs to be done. Second, he is paying close attention to what is going on in the sanctuary. Attention to detail reflects a love for the Mass. This attention to detail and love of the mass is something we share with holy mother church. Our public worship usually called liturgy is of great concern to the church and so she does everything she can to make sure that liturgies are celebrated in a dignified and common way. For each of the sacraments the liturgical actions and prayers are specified in a liturgical book appropriate to the sacrament. The liturgical book for the mass is called the Roman Missal. That is the very large book in the bookstand on the altar or on a side table close to the priest. At the very front of the book is what amounts to another booklet titled The General Instruction of the Roman Missal This document describes in detail how the sanctuary should be set up and exactly what actions are to be taken by each of the liturgical ministers. The general instruction directs that there should be candlesticks with lighted candles on or next to the altar. We use candles to remind us of Christ as the light of the world — Jesus came into our world of sin, darkness, and death to bring the light of God to us. He expressed this in the Gospel of John when he said, “I am the light of the world; he who follows me will not walk in darkness, but will have the light of life” (John 8:12). Altar candles should also bring to mind that many of the persecuted Christians in the first centuries celebrated Mass secretly at night or in the catacombs, with the only light being candlelight. The fortitude and perseverance of those Christians helped the Faith survive and thrive even into the 21st century. This should remind us of the possibility that we too could be in a similar situation, celebrating Mass under threat of persecution. The use of candles on the altar began before the 12 th century. With the advent of modern electric lighting candles no longer have a practical purpose. They are required for use in the liturgy and are actually so important to the proper dignity and celebration of the Mass that it is normally deemed a grievous offense to celebrate Mass without any candlelight. Candles add a more festive character to the celebration of Mass. According to the General Instruction: “The altar is to be covered with at least one white cloth. In addition, on or next to the altar are to be placed candlesticks with lighted candles: at least two in any celebration, or even four or six, especially for a Sunday Mass or a Holy Day of Obligation, or if the Diocesan Bishop celebrates then seven candlesticks with lighted candles.”

PRO-LIFE MESSAGE

The 2022 midterm elections in the U.S. are shaping up to be the most important elections on the bioethical issues concerning the dignity of human life in living memory, specifically preborn life. This is hardly surprising, given the Supreme Court's decision earlier this year to reverse Roe v Wade. So long as Roe was the law of the land, individual states were severely hampered in what laws they could pass to restrict abortion. With Roe cleared out of the way, states are now free to pass all sorts of laws protecting preborn life. Naturally, this has galvanized people on both sides of the issue. Pro-life politicians and citizens are jumping at the opportunity to pass laws protecting more preborn children from the violence of abortion. However, on the flipside pro-abortion strategists are seeking every available opportunity to tighten, or expand, pro-abortion laws in liberal states, particularly in light of a recent report that sixty-six abortion facilities have closed and have since ceased performing abortions since Roe was reversed. What happened to the argument that they provide all these other important services to women? It should be obvious that abortion is their main objective and cash cow. As the New York Times put it in a recent analysis, with Roe gone "every election has implications for [abortion] access." That same analysis notes that voters in at least seven states are set to vote on ballot initiatives or in governor or legislative races that could have massive implications for abortion. In several states, voters will have the opportunity to vote on critical ballot initiatives, some pro-abortion and some pro-life. In California, Michigan, and Vermont, voters will be asked on whether to place the "right" to abortion, on demand, into the state constitutions. In California, voters will vote on Proposition 1, a profoundly destructive constitutional amendment that would prohibit state legislators from passing any pro-life legislation. As the state's official summary reads, Proposition 1 would amend the state constitution, "to expressly include an individual's fundamental right to reproductive freedom, which includes the fundamental right to choose to have an abortion and the fundamental right to choose or refuse contraceptives." Proposition 1 is an extreme law that allows late-term abortions at taxpayer expense up to the moment of birth—even if the baby is healthy and the mother's health is not threatened. Current California law already guarantees a woman's right to choose, making this extreme and costly proposal unnecessary. This is a breathtakingly extreme amendment that would make it impossible for California legislators to pass even the mildest abortion restrictions. If passed, Prop 1 would radically change health care policy by giving even more power to pro-abortion politicians. It poses an existential threat to untold thousands of preborn children every year. The California Conference of Bishops stated "they vehemently oppose Proposition 1 (SCA 10), which looks to enshrine the most extreme forms of abortion into the California Constitution. We believe in protecting life at every age in every stage.... Enshrining this amendment's language into the constitution will extend the danger of coercive abortion to babies with unquestioned viability." In response to this grave threat, the bishops are calling upon the state's 12 million Catholics "to work to raise awareness and vigorous opposition." Prop 1 must be defeated! In Michigan, voters will be voting on Proposal 3, which would affirm a "constitutional right" to "reproductive freedom," which the proposal defines as "the right to make and effectuate decisions about all matters relating to pregnancy, including but not limited to prenatal care, childbirth, postpartum care, contraception, sterilization, abortion care, miscarriage management, and infertility care." Pro-life citizens must vote no to this proposal. Similarly, in Vermont, an affirmative vote on Proposal 5 would insert a "right" to "personal reproductive autonomy" into the constitution. Once again, Catholic voters should be sure to vote no! In Kentucky, meanwhile, voters will be asked to vote on Amendment 2, which would make it clear that there is nothing in the state constitution that creates a right to abortion. In other words, a "yes" vote would protect the ability for pro-life lawmakers to pass laws protecting the lives of unborn children. And, in Montana voters will weigh in on Montana LR-131, the Medical Care Requirements for Born-Alive Infants Measure. This measure makes clear that children that are born alive, even if after an attempted abortion, are legal persons and must be provided with medical care. There are state-level races in North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, and Kansas as being of immediate critical importance for so called "abortion rights". In Kansas, a ballot initiative that would have overturned a state Supreme Court decision protecting abortion was rejected a few months ago. However, six of the seven Supreme Court justices are up for re-election. If voters reject the justices re-election, that will open up the possibility of whoever wins the governor's race for appointing pro-life justices who can overturn the pro-abortion ruling. In the lead up to the midterms, Leftist strategists have been working to turn people's attention away from the dismal state of the economy, and keep it focused firmly on the issue of abortion. They believe that by painting Conservatives as "extremists" on the issue of abortion in the wake of the reversal of Roe, they can distract from the failures of this administration on a host of other issues. To that end, they have spent over $124 million on abortion-related advertising against pro-life candidates. Besides the fact that this is likely a losing strategy, the only way that they can accomplish this is through misleading tactics. Take, for instance, the response to Sen. Lindsey Graham's highly imperfect proposed bill to ban abortion after 15 weeks. Leftist and the pro-abortion media have attempted to portray this as an "extreme" pro-life bill. In reality, most European countries, including the most liberal nations, actually have abortion laws that are more restrictive than Sen. Graham's bill, often only allowing abortion in the first 12 or 13 weeks. If anything, then, Sen. Graham's bill exposes how extreme the leftist are, and how extreme abortion law under Roe was! Whereas practically every government in Europe, no matter how liberal, acknowledges that the preborn child is deserving of protection at some point, Leftist in the U.S. want abortion-on-demand, paid for with tax dollars, up to birth! Abortion is a preeminent issue, one that surpasses all others: it involves an intentional act by parents and health care professionals to deliberately destroy the lives of totally innocent preborn children. As an intrinsic evil, abortion is never permitted or morally justified, regardless of individual circumstances or intentions. And abortion is distinct from other social ills because the innocent child in the womb has no legal protection. Certainly, the stakes this November couldn't be higher. Pro-abortion politicians and advocates for abortion are hoping to win enough seats on both state and federal levels to enshrine abortion "rights" into law, and to stop pro-life state legislatures from passing pro-life laws, or from allowing those laws to go into effect. It is critical that Catholics and committed pro-life Americans show up to the polls and volunteer their time to get out the vote for pro-life initiatives and candidates. Lives depend on it! And so do the souls of those that promote abortion.

Jack Swan, Pro-life Director

2023 Pro-Life Pancake Breakfast

We are grateful to God and the tireless efforts of countless pro-life activists that Roe V. Wade was overturned, finally, and God willing, forever. But the fight continues. Illinois will continue to allow abortions and the option may be even more liberal than it was under the federal law. Iowa will disallow it, but that could change if Iowa loses conservative executive or legislative majorities. 2023 marks the 50th anniversary of Roe v. Wade. Organizers are planning a March on Washington both in commemoration of that fateful day 50 years ago and in celebration of the recent victory. In solidarity, our Council is planning, once again, to support local pro-life organizations by hosting a pancake breakfast. Mark your calendar for Sunday January 22nd, and please consider how you might help make the fundraiser the best to date. I will be contacting you again later in the fall to solicit your involvement.

Your brother, Jerry Schroeder

PRAYER FOR THE CANONIZATION OF FATHER

MICHAEL J. MCGIVENEY God, our Father, protector of the poor and defender of the widow and orphan, you called your priest, Father Michael J. McGivney, to be an apostle of Christian family life and to lead the young to the generous service of their neighbor. Through the example of his life and virtue may we follow your Son, Jesus Christ, more closely, fulfilling his commandment of charity and building up his Body which is the Church. Let the inspiration of your servant prompt us to greater confidence in your love so that we may continue his work of caring for the needy and the outcast. We humbly ask that you glorify your venerable servant Father Michael J. McGivney on earth according to the design of your holy will. Through his intercession, grant the favor I now present (here make your request). Through Christ our Lord. Amen.

Good morning Sir Knights,
We've been asked to provide an Honor Guard for the Deceased Members Mass for Allouez Council. The Mass will be the regular 4:00 PM Mass at St. Mary's, Rock Island, on Saturday, November 5th. I believe there will be a Presentation of Colors at the beginning of the Social, so we would be looking for at least 4, and preferably 6 or more Sir Knights to participate in the Presentation of Colors. Please let me know if you will be able to attend the Deceased Members Mass and whether you would like to participate in the Presentation of Colors at the Social following the Mass.
